Join national award winning artist Dick Wimberly in this exciting and entertaining outdoor painting class. Each day will focus on a different set of subjects: rustic outdoor scenery, verdant garden life, and clouds of the New Mexico sky. He will discuss painting principles and demonstrate techniques in his limited color plein air palette. LEARN to see and use value levels to give dimension to your paintings. LEARN to paint greens with a limited palette plus understanding when and where to use color. LEARN speed skills. Participants will choose their subjects and be guided through producing their own works. There will be daily lectures and demonstrations. Attendees can expect to work on at least two paintings per day. Participants may become a member of PAPNM, pay $5 fee and enter the PAPNM exhibition with a painting done before the workshop. Additionally each participant can have one painting done in the workshop to hang alongside but not in the Plein Air Painters of New Mexico exhibition at Clovis Community College.

Dick has been a professional artist since graduation from Eastern New Mexico University. He has been painting outdoors for 40 years, and has taught art to everyone from children in Albuquerque Public Schools to adults at two New Mexico Universities. He has studied with Wilson Hurley, Clyde Aspevig and Michael Lynch. He serves as President of Plein Air Painters of New Mexico

(PAPNM) and is a member of the Oil Painters of America and of the Laguna Plein Air Painters Association.
